

Infinera Supplier Diversity

Infinera suppliers are a key element of our mission success, providing impactful innovation in all aspects of company operations and a competitive advantage in the marketplace. We focus on optimizing this critically important resource by partnering with suppliers offering a broad range of high quality capabilities. As a result we are firmly committed to ensuring that qualified suppliers have the opportunity to compete for the products and services procured in the U.S. , particularly those classified as small and certified diverse companies who often times bring unique perspectives and skillsets to our partnerships.

To that end Infinera supports the use of qualified diverse suppliers including but not limited to the following certifiable classifications:
